

We are pleased to inform you that PowerSchool has completed its acquisition of PeopleAdmin, and today, the company becomes part of the PowerSchool family.

PowerSchool is the leading provider of education technology solutions. For more than 20 years, we've designed, developed, and delivered award-winning solutions to help educators improve student achievement. After years of working in close partnership with PeopleAdmin, our companies felt the time was right to come together to better serve the education community. Together, our combined company helps unlock the potential of millions of students.

PeopleAdmin's best-in-class solutions for Higher Education complement PowerSchool's overall edtech offering. With this acquisition, our market-leading position in education technology allows us to deliver innovative solutions that simplify and automate critical processes while providing insightful analytics.

We are driven by our passion for powering student success and are committed to ongoing product development, support, and service of all PeopleAdmin Higher Education solutions. PowerSchool's products have always remained open for seamless integration with other educational technologies and we are committed to maintaining this open ecosystem, supporting standards-based integrations with other third-party products now and in the future. As we look ahead to future innovation, the product portfolio for higher education will be expanded with a focus on Talent Management, Learning, and Faculty.

Our focus during this transition is on you, our customer. We will work hard to ensure complete continuity when working with our combined organization and you can continue to work with your existing customer relationship manager, services, and support contacts. Our team will work diligently to provide improved levels of innovation, support, and services going forward.
